

2021 FACT SHEET

Thank you for your interest in our Basic Workers' Compensation course for Oregon claims examiners. This sheet provides answers to the most frequently asked questions, including this year's course schedule.

INSTRUCTORS: The course is presented live by Reinisch Wilson Weier attorneys with decades of experience specializing in workers' compensation litigation defense. Associates of the firm conduct study question lab sessions following the principal lectures to provide special mentoring and to go over study questions that are specifically designed to prepare students for information covered in the certification examination, as well as one-on-one mentoring outside of class.

This course was previously led by Jerry Keene, founder of the Oregon Workers' Compensation Institute. Jerry taught the course from 1991, when Oregon first began to require examiner certification, until his teaching retirement at the end of 2017.

COURSE DATES: Each course consists of 10, three-hour sessions on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, 2:00 PM until 5:00 PM, unless otherwise noted; check the online webpage to confirm these session dates: https://rwwcomplaw.com/2021-certification/.

ONLINE LECTURES: Students watch the live lectures remotely and participate via a live chat. Prior to the start of each session, links to the presentations will be emailed. Online participants will take the Final Exam online, and will also need to be proctored by an employer and provide certification that he or she took the test.

ATTENDANCE: Students may not miss more than one of the first 8 class sessions to remain eligible to take the certification exam. Replays of recorded lectures will be available for course participants to make up missed classes.

CERTIFICATION: Oregon law (OAR Chapter 436, Division 055) requires prospective examiners to score 80% or more on an examination that tests familiarity with and ability to "navigate" workers' compensation administrative rules and statutes; the ability to perform basic processing functions, and familiarity with the rules governing IME interactions. The Basic Workers' Compensation course and exam are designed to satisfy these requirements. Approximately 85% of students historically have passed on the first try, but we cannot and do not guarantee passage. Those participants who pass will receive all documentation necessary to satisfy Oregon law governing certification. Course participation will also satisfy all 24 hours of continuing education credits (including "rules update" and IME interaction credits) necessary to renew certification for Oregon examiners.

TUITION: The course tuition is (still) $525 per person. The fee is due in advance and is nonrefundable. We accept payments online as well as checks in advance of the first class.
